Grand Island (NE) Independent – Substitute for tissue no longer an issue: Grand Island wastewater treatment plant staff advise residents to watch what they flush - 2/4/21 - The wastewater treatment plant has multiple physical and biological processes that treat the water “to remove a lot of the bacteria and hazardous items, and then we treat it. It has to meet certain standards set by the EPA and the state, and then we are allowed to discharge it back to the river,” Rogers said.

REGIONAL

Columbia (MO) Daily Tribune - Commentary: Missouri’s Department of Natural Resources sells out to foreign factory farms – 2/4/21 - Missouri DNR is considering changing the groundwater definition to exclude perched water — get this — FOR CAFOs ONLY. Shouldn’t all groundwater sources be safeguarded and handled with care, no matter the industry? <http://bit.ly/3aGaD5D>

Des Moines Business Record – Column: The Elbert Files: D.M.’s role in climate history – 2/5/21 - The Des Moines City Council on Jan. 11 took a significant step. After years of consideration and months of discussion, the council unanimously approved a resolution setting “a community-wide goal of achieving 100 percent 24x7 electricity from carbon free sources by 2035.” <http://bit.ly/3rm1gP9>

Biofuels Digest - AltEn under fire for using pesticide-treated seed corn as feedstock – 2/4/21 - In Nebraska, the Omaha World Herald newspaper reports that the AltEn ethanol plant in Mead is the target of a new bill being introduced into the state legislature that would ban it from using pesticide-treated seed corn as feedstock. <http://bit.ly/3tFs5zQ>

Brownfield Ag News – Iowa Ag Secretary Calls This An “Interesting Time in Agriculture” – 2/4/21 - Iowa’s Ag Secretary Mike Naig tells Brownfield he sees plenty of optimism right now. He says there’s also some caution as farmers think about tax and climate policy under President Biden. <http://bit.ly/3jjmTgh>

Brownfield Ag News – Equipment Dealers Ask Biden to Consider Rural Impacts of Policies – 2/4/21 - Infrastructure along with regulatory and tax reform are among the top issues the Equipment Dealers Association is asking the Biden administration to prioritize. <http://bit.ly/2MGnXi9>

2021 TRANSITION

Government Executive - Labor and Environmental Groups Optimistic Biden's EPA Pick Can Rebuild Trust – 2/4/21 - Environmental groups and the largest union representing Environmental Protection Agency employees expressed optimism following a confirmation hearing Wednesday that President Biden's pick to lead the EPA will bring back scientific integrity and trust at the agency. <http://bit.ly/3rtmGcW>

MRT - How long can EPA nominee's romance with GOP last? – 2/4/21 - A hunter and fisherman from the south, and a regulator who has upset environmentalists by giving industry a place at the table in rule making, Michael Regan might have seemed an unusual choice to head the Environmental Protection Agency in a Biden administration stacked with progressives. <http://bit.ly/3aC33c3>

E&E News - Five takeaways from the Michael Regan hearing – 2/4/21 - In just under three hours, the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee questioned President Biden's EPA administrator nominee about air, climate and water regulations; his plans to rebuild the agency; and how he will handle complex issues around biofuels and pesticides that have vexed past administrators. <http://bit.ly/3oLcDOU>

Chemistry & Engineering News - US EPA nominee stresses environmental justice and PFAS control | Michael Regan wants to limit PFAS releases to air and water – 2/4/21 - Ensuring environmental justice and controlling releases of per- and polyfluoroalkyl substances (PFAS) are priorities for Michael S. Regan, President Joe Biden's pick to run the EPA. <http://bit.ly/39TchBm>

Utility DIVE - Biden EPA pick promises senators 'clean slate' in examining greenhouse gas regulations – 2/4/21 - Michael Regan promised to work cooperatively with states and local communities, and said under his watch protecting the environment would not come "solely from regulation." <http://bit.ly/2MumD25>

Biofuels Digest - EPA administrator nominee wants to consult general counsel before deciding on SREs – 2/4/21 - In Washington, Reuters reports that President Biden's pick for EPA administrator told the Senate committee interviewing him for the role he needs to discuss the situation of small refinery exemptions with general counsel to understand the current legal intricacies of the case. <http://bit.ly/2YKHBMj>

Farm Progress - EPA nominee Regan talks future of WOTUS, RFS – 2/4/21 - While sitting before the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee Wednesday afternoon, EPA Administrator nominee Michael Regan again confirmed he would work together with stakeholders to try to strike the right regulatory balance for those in agriculture. <http://bit.ly/3aCedNZ>

Brownfield Ag News - MO Farm Bureau concerned over Biden revisiting WOTUS – 2/4/21 - The President of Missouri Farm Bureau says he is concerned about President Biden revisiting the Waters of the United States Rule. <http://bit.ly/3rp9Lc7>

The Detroit News - Kildee leads Michigan reps in pushing Flint native for key EPA job – 2/5/21 - Democratic U.S. Rep. Dan Kildee is lobbying the Biden administration to appoint Flint native Micah Ragland to lead the Midwest regional office of the U.S. EPA. <http://bit.ly/3clq2om>

Beyond Pesticides - Biden Executive Orders Set the Stage for Systemic Change, If Words Turn to Action – 2/5/21 - The American public has witnessed, in the barely launched tenure of President Joe Biden, a surge of Executive Orders (EOs). Based on the first flurry of orders, much of the Biden “reset” appears gauged to beat back Trump policies that worsened an already inadequate regulatory system, and to reconfigure federal operations and regulations so as to address and solve the biggest threats (beyond COVID) the country faces. <https://bit.ly/3q4Onsg>

AP - Biden delays Trump rule that weakened wild bird protections – 2/5/21 - The Biden administration said Thursday it was delaying a rule finalized in former President Donald Trump's last days in office that would have drastically weakened the government's power to enforce a century-old law protecting most wild birds. <http://bit.ly/3rplVAz>

KGLO Radio Mason City IA - Ernst Questions EPA Nominee – 2/4/21 - Iowa Senator Joni Ernst questioned the man nominated to lead the Environmental Protection Agency in a Senate hearing. Ernst asked nominee Michael Regan about issues surrounding renewable fuels — including the Renewable Fuel Standard. <http://bit.ly/3cWZUqf>

Missouri Independent - Biden EPA nominee fields GOP discontent on president's climate change orders – 2/4/21 - Michael Regan would “follow the science and follow the law” if confirmed as EPA administrator, he told the U.S. Senate Environment and Public Works Committee during a three-hour confirmation hearing Wednesday. <http://bit.ly/36KZKxU>

Inside EPA – Environmentalists tout state PFAS policies despite Biden agenda – 2/4/21 - Even as EPA is widely expected to tighten its implementation of TSCA under the Biden administration, environmental groups expect states to “take the lead” in regulating a host of toxic chemicals in 2021, including a host of planned restrictions on per- and polyfluoroalkyl substances (PFAS). <http://bit.ly/3aGAv0Y>

Inside EPA – Regan Skirts Calls To Re-Do Asbestos Evaluation But Agrees To Review – 2/4/21 - EPA Administrator nominee Michael Regan says he will revisit the Trump-era TSCA assessment of chrysotile asbestos and identify “data and science gaps,” but stopped short of backing calls from some Democrats and environmentalists for the agency to redo that and other chemical evaluations entirely. <http://bit.ly/39P7C3E>

Bloomberg Law - Trump's Last-Minute Flubs Open Window for Biden to Rewrite Rules – 2/4/21

- Skeptical courts are giving President Joe Biden a window to reopen last-minute rules that the Trump administration tried to rush out to beat a regulatory freeze. <https://bit.ly/2LncbZr>

Inside EPA – Reversing Trump Policy, Biden Supports Citizen Clean Air Act Enforcement –

2/4/21 - Reversing a Trump-era policy, the Biden EPA and Department of Justice (DOJ) are supporting citizen groups' ability to pursue Clean Air Act enforcement by deciding not to appeal a recent federal district court order approving an air suit settlement between Sierra Club and utility DTE that the Trump administration had opposed. <http://bit.ly/3aGyhP8>

Inside EPA - 'Mostly Dead' Clean Power Plan Could See Limited Revival By Biden EPA – 2/4/21 -

A new legal analysis of the Biden EPA's options for reviving the Obama-era Clean Power Plan (CPP) greenhouse gas rule for power plants says an appeals court ruling vacating the Trump EPA's narrower Affordable Clean Energy (ACE) replacement rule means the CPP is "only mostly dead" and could eventually return in a more-limited form. <http://bit.ly/2OdQY5v>

E&E News - Tribes expect a voice on land and waters under Haaland – 2/4/21 -

With Democratic New Mexico Rep. Deb Haaland poised to become the first Native American Interior secretary, tribal governments historically marginalized by the agency expect not only a greater respect for their autonomy, but also a more significant role in the nation's land and water management decisions. <http://bit.ly/3cixhgf>
